PROMOTING OUR MEMBERS

2017 Chamber Membership Directory Reserve Your Space Now!

The Mount Shasta Chamber of Commerce Directory gives detailed information about our area: community profile, city government, healthcare, education, history, culture, and upcoming events. Most importantly it lists members in the Membership Directory as well as the Business Guide. The Directory is available at real estate offices, banks, city hall and the Chamber of Commerce office. This guide is also mailed to individuals or businesses requesting relocation information. It is an excellent way to promote and grow your business.

Aside from the 5,000 printed copies, a digital version is also available online at mtshastachamber.com.

Our website gets an average of 200,000 visits per year.

New Peace Poles Welcome Visitors

Tourists are being greeted by something new at the local Visitors Bureau. Three peace poles have been installed by the City at the Bureau entrance.

“We welcome guests from all over the world at the Mt. Shasta Visitors Bureau. Our new peace poles are a simple way to greet visitors in a meaningful way in their own languages,” explains Shahan Jon, Visitors Bureau representative, “and we are very grateful to city councilman Tim Stearns for his gift of the poles.”

According to the World Peace Prayer Society, peace poles “symbolize the oneness of humanity and our common wish for a world at peace.” They spread the universal prayer: “May peace prevail on Earth.”

Currently there are more than 200,000 peace poles that have been dedicated; they are in nearly every country on Earth. The Mt. Shasta Visitors Bureau entrance is graced by three poles featuring the prayer in twenty-three languages.

The Peace Prayer was authored in 1955 by the late Masahisa Goi of Japan when he was inspired to awaken people around the world to the need for inner and outer peace. In 1976 the idea of placing the prayer on poles was initiated and the Peace Pole Project of the World Peace Prayer Society began. The intent is that by placing the prayer on poles in different languages something all inclusive is created: “A meeting place of the heart bringing together people of all faiths, backgrounds, and cultures to embrace the oneness of our planetary family.”

The Mt. Shasta Visitors Bureau is located at 300 Pine St. The peace poles may be viewed at the corner of Lake and Pine Streets.

News from the Visitors Bureau

As fall approaches one can begin to see the changes happening around us. The leaves will begin to change their color, the day time will be warm and the nights will begin to cool. Here at the Visitor Bureau, faces and voices are changing; Tammy Mc Coy, Jude Ordakowski and Marilyne Shamansky are the ones changing the face and voice.

Tammy Mc Coy who has been a mainstay and welcoming face and voice will be moving to New Mexico to begin a new adventure in her life. Her experience and knowledge of the area will be missed, but not as much as her sunny personality. Another change will be one of the pillars of our bureau, for quite a few years Jude Ordakowski has worked nearly every Saturday and Sunday at the Visitor Bureau. She has greeted many visitors from all over the world. She has shared her experience on the local trails to many.

Marilyne Shamansky joined the Visitor Bureau this past spring. She retired from Simpson University and resides and plays here in Mt Shasta. She has spent many years traveling the trail system in our area. She also likes to kayak and instruct yoga. She is very light hearted, energetic and welcoming.

Tammy and Jude have been instrumental in gathering the information regarding the visitors that come to Mt Shasta. They also take with them the many memories of visitors and locals that have come through the door. On behalf of Jim, Shahan and Marilyne we will miss you both and wish you the best in the years to come.

And to Marilyne welcome to the team we love having you with us. — Nancy Patrick
